

Pricelist 'The Last Flock'. Sheep and little lambs

Excl. 9% BTW for Dutch inhabitants

At this moment the flock consists of over 50 sheep and little lambs. They are in the collection of the 'Ministry of Inland affairs', a collector in Oman bought a ram and a ewe and a little lamb for his collection, and many found their way to private collectors in different countries.

I handspun every dread on my spinning wheel with so called fat wool. Unwashed shaved wool. After the spinning the washing and drying follows and one by one the dreads are glued on the sheep or little lamb. The proces is long and intensive. Also, the timespan to make the whole flock has been a long time.

This flock is an homage to the sheep and lambs and all they give to us. They enabled us to make many things out of their wool and leather. We could migrate and survive when we needed to move to other places to live where still was food and water. We took our tents, blankets, rugs and so and went to better places to live.

The wool of the colored lambs is from the souk in Marrakesh and the thinner threads I spun into dreads.

In these sculptures the symbolic meaning of sheep and lambs comes together.
